school of business

Preparing students for the many occupations of the modern business world is the ideal of the School of Business. Certificates, Bachelors' degrees and Masters' degrees are available.

introduction

In the next few pages we are attempting to give you a glimpse into the academic life of RPI students. Practical application is the trademark of this professional school.

commercial art

A creative and technical application of ideas surrounds the student who studies in the Commercial Art Department. He is also acquainted with the needs of the contemporary art field.

school of distribution

Composed of many departments, the School of Distribution is the oldest of its kind in the South. Certificates and Bachelor of Science degrees may be obtained. It is a member of many professional organizations.

economics department

This department offers electives to students majoring in other fields. It works closely with the Schools of Business and Distribution in their program planning.

retailing department

Basic principles in retailing, modern techniques and practical experience in local stores are combined in the course of study. Training is available in merchandising, sales promotion, and personnel and store management.

dramatic art and speech

Training in the theatre, radio and television with courses in speech correction is included in the program of study. Several major productions and one-acts are presented by this department annually.

school of music

The RPI School of Music is based on the conservatory plan which allows the student to spend the majority of time on musical studies. Practice rooms and instruments are available for students. A special building is provided for this school.

costume design department

The would-be professional and the just personally interested student will find courses in this department to fit his needs. Drawing classes, classes for making clothes and classes in techniques are available.

school of engineering

The RPI School of Engineering offers either a one-year or two-year preparation for entrance to VPI. Operated on the quarter system, two plans of study are available—the standard plan in which the student does all his work in the classroom and the cooperative plan in which the student combines actual experience and classroom work.

sociology department

This department prepares the student for a Bachelor of Science degree in Social Science and also for going on to the graduate school of Social Work. It offers many courses required by other departments also.

school of applied science

This school consists of many departments including Chemistry, Physics, Biology, Psychology, Medical Technology and Physical Therapy. Two- and four-year courses are available in most of these departments.

department of education

The RPI Department of Education offers programs of study in many fields of education. It also offers an elementary education program. Student teaching is required in this department.

department of journalism

A combination of the practical with classroom study is the objective of this department. A weekly newspaper is published by the students in this department. Besides the major courses in Journalism, students are urged to take many electives in order to give them a well-rounded education.

photography department

Techniques, production and experimentation are the key words to students studying in this department. A two-year certificate is awarded on the completion of the course. The photography classes are open to all students and are a requirement or recommendation of several departments.

advertising department

The Advertising Department prepares the student to work in advertising firms and agencies throughout the world. Under the cooperative work-study program, the student is able to receive college credits for his part-time work experience while acquiring "on the job" training.

fine art department

To become a good creative artist is the main objective of all freshmen entering the Fine Arts field. Drawing, painting and problems in picture structure are stressed in order to prepare the student for teaching or professional artist work.

fashion illustration department

The Fashion Illustration Department trains the student for positions in department stores, newspapers and advertising agencies. The student learns to analyze the costumes and accessories of each season and to interpret fashion and color trends.

school of nursing

The School of Nursing works hand in hand with local hospitals in preparing students for a diploma in nursing and for furthering their education toward a degree. The School of Nursing also offers courses for students at several of the neighboring hospitals.

psychology department

Psychology prepares the student for positions in personnel work, industrial and business psychology, counseling and similar positions in clinical and applied psychology. This is the first year that a national fraternity for psychology majors has been organized. To be accepted into Phi Chi a student must have a B average.

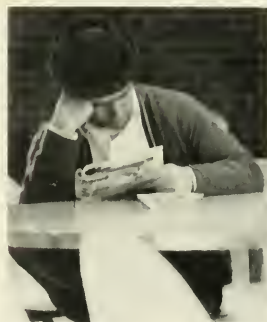

school of occupational therapy

Five years are required to receive a degree in the School of Occupational Therapy. Four years are spent in college study and one year is spent in clinical training. A three-year certificate is also available but still requires the nine months of clinical training.

the president

DR. GEORGE J. OLIVER

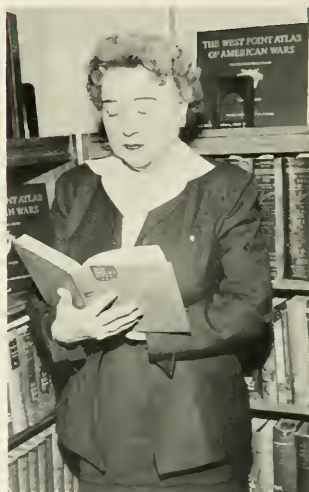

An expanding campus and better student relationships have marked the two years that Dr. George J. Oliver has been the top administrator at RPI. Dr. Oliver meets each day with a cheerful smile and friendly hello for all he meets. A real asset to the campus, he performs his duties with enthusiasm and skill.

Dean of Students
WILLIAM R. O'CONNELL, JR.

An always smiling face around campus is Mr. William R. O'Connell, Jr., better known as Dean of Students. Besides the ever-increasing duties called for by this position, he also finds time to help the annual staff, work with the Student Government Association and Honor Council and talk with all students. Dean O'Connell has worked with RPI students since his graduation from RPI in 1955. His understanding and interest in students is well known among the student body.

Dean of Women
JANE B. GLADDING

An always willing helper is Dean Gladding. She is never too busy to talk with any girl seeking her help and guidance. Dean Gladding has been a teacher in the Chemistry Department for several years. She works closely with the Women's Inter-Dormitory Council and is anxious to help solve any problems arising from dormitory life.

what direction will you take?

RPI graduates will come in contact with all types of climates as they pursue their chosen professions. They may choose one of the two extreme climates shown on this page or they may prefer something in between. Whatever their direction, they are sure to have success. Good luck, Graduates of 1961.

The Proscript, an intimate part of student life at RPI, serves as a workshop for Journalism majors and an extracurricular activity for others.

The RPI paper is published weekly in either four- or eight-page editions. Working on the Proscript gives the students the opportunity to learn the practical side of newspaper publication. They are responsible for all news, features, photographs, editorials and make-up. Several trips a week are made to a local printer to put the contents together.

student government association

The Student Government Association of RPI directs the general welfare of the school and gives the students training in citizenship and leadership. It is the duty of the SGA to strive for the betterment of the school in both academic and extracurricular activities.

The objective of the Honor Council is to promote honor and integrity among the students at RPI.

executive council

Composed of four Student Government officers and the presidents of the Senior, Junior and Sophomore classes, the Executive Council acts as a steering committee for the SGA.

The Student Council, composed of members from all clubs and classes, bring to the Student Government Association all suggestions and grievances of their organizations. Here they attempt to work out these ideas for the benefit of the school. Good training in citizenship and leadership is also an accomplishment of the Student Council.

828 park avenue

The "dorm on the corner" finds its girls participating in all activities. The girls in 828, known for their warm hospitality, have a way of making a dormitory seem like home. The friendships made here will last a lifetime.

meredith house

Noted for its dormitory parties and the Christmas time skits, Meredith House is a real center of activity. Interests range from academic greatness to the formal dances. But the girls in Meredith put all these interests together and come out with very harmonious living conditions.

Carolyn Polus, President; Mary E. Mutchler, Vice-President; Margaret Vaughn, Secretary; Barbara Jean Massengill, Treasurer; Betty Helms, Freshman Representative.

Mrs. Mary Carter, Hostess; Vicky Lundberg, President; Ruthan Christy, Treasurer; Delores Campbell, Freshman Representative; Virginia Gibson, Secretary, and Lynn Hays, Vice-President.

lee house

Devotion to duty, devotion to friends and devotion to the school are the by-words in Lee House Dormitory. A building loaded with closeness and cooperation, Lee House would be a star on any campus.

founders hall

Seated:

BETH MASSEY, Vice-President
SHARAN MACFARLAND, President
BETTY LOU MATKINS, Secretary

Standing:

NANCY PERRICELLI
Freshman Representative
THERESA SHEPPARD, Treasurer

The largest dormitory on campus, Founders Hall also houses the cafeteria and the nurse's office. This eliminates any unnecessary traveling for these girls in bad weather. In warm, sunny weather the girls in Founders like to walk around campus like the hundreds of other RPI students.

Left to right: Pat Hensley, Secretary; Jane Britt, Sue Carter, President; Emmy Lee Mason, Treasurer, and Annette Ferguson, Vice-President

In the dormitory characterized by the large white columns on the front can be found a wide variety of activities going on. Anything from the doing of homework to the fixing of hair may be carried on at any time of day.

anderson house

The girls in Anderson House reflect the feelings and ideas of all the girls at RPI. Their tears, their happiness and their anxieties help make up the atmosphere in their home away from home.

scherer hall

The dormitory at the corner of Franklin and Harrison is always bustling with excitement. The elevator in this building causes quite a bit of anxiety as it strands 15 girls per day between floors. You're never sure whether to take your pillow with you when traveling between floors.

women's inter-dorm council

The inter-dorm council is made up of the presidents of each of the women's dormitories. They provide rules and regulations and promote interest in and enthusiasm for dormitory life.

The American Institute of Decorators sponsors student art work displays, field trips and special project studies during the year. They also work to bring the students in this professional vocation closer together.

a.i.d. in action

Phi Beta Lambda is composed of business students who are interested in furthering their knowledge of activities in the business world. They coordinate with various high schools in the Richmond area, helping them to organize business clubs. Phi Beta Lambda became the first club on campus to bear a Greek letter name. This year's activities include the publication of the Student Directory, the Slave Sale, the Christmas card sale, a formal dance, and a booth at the Spring carnival. They closed the year with a banquet, dances and a picnic.

student national education association

An organization designed for future teachers, the Student National Education Association promotes interest in the teaching profession and helps members of the club gain more efficient methods of conducting a class. Several social events are also planned by this organization.

fine arts club

An annual project of the Fine Arts Club is the auctioning of students' work. Half of the receipts in this sale go to the artist whose work was purchased and the other half goes into an art scholarship fund. The club also promotes a better understanding between art students and students in other fields.

day students league

The Day Students League is an organization made up of off-campus students. The purpose of this club is to have a voice in student government as a body and also bring about a feeling of unity between day students and dormitory students. It also enables an off-campus student to become more familiar with the various activities taking place at RPI.

girls' basketball team

Under the guidance of Mrs. Gwen Donohue and the leadership of Joanne Harris and Carolyn Hodges the girls played fast-moving, highly-spirited and good competitive basketball. Although not one of the best years for the girls, much was learned and a lot of fun was had. The Bigger Trophy for the most valuable player went to Carol Heizer.

The RPI Tennis Team, although plagued by inexperience and injuries, came through with some fine tennis playing. Not an extremely successful season for the team as far as winning goes, the hard work put into developing this team should prove its worth next year.

Under the coaching of Miss Nancy Alexander and with the leadership of Virginia Team and Joan Gross optimism for a winning season is running very high.
